Ochiai Water Reclamation Center, located very close to the subcenter of the Shinjuku area, is environmentally-friendly wastewater treatment facilities surrounded by residential district in Tokyo. The treatment area is 3,506 ha. The treated water is discharged to Kanda River, with some part is used for toilet water and restoration of nearly dried up streams.

Water supply in Tokyo can be traced back to the Edo-era, early 1700s. Tokyo Metropolitan Waterworks Bureau (TMWB) has succeeded in securing water resources and reinforcing facilities to ensure a supply of clean water. TMWB has introduced sophisticated technologies to supply high-quality water, to prepare measures against disaster, and to meet environmental requirements. In this tour, you will learn at Tokyo Waterworks Historical Museum, from its history to cutting edge technologies and facilities.

You will step through the Thunder Gate into the lively shopping street of Nakamise and Sensoji Temple. Then, you will hop on a boat for a river cruise to the Hama-rikyu Gardens. You can see Tokyo from a different angle from the surface of Sumida-River including bridges constructed for restoration from the Great Kanto Earthquake stuck in 1923.
